Alumnae Clubs To Assist In Beaver Night Activities

The Beaver College Alumnae Association will take a large part in the Beaver Night program on Saturday, March 10. The alumnae will sponsor an informal dance to be given after the combined Lehigh-Beaver concert. The alumnae chairman for Beaver Night on campus is Mrs. Dorothy Kistler Erskine '42.

The Lehigh Collegians will play for the dance. The dance will begin at 9:30 p.m. and last until 12. It will be held in Murphy gymnasium.

The gym will be decorated by the alumnae. They will use the theme of "Music." Refreshments will be served during the dance.

This will be the fourth annual Beaver Night at the college. The alumnae have always taken a great interest in this event.

Phoebe Anne Bent '49 is the general chairman of the national Beaver Night celebration. This year state chairmen have been selected in an effort to organize sections which do not have Beaver Alumnae Clubs. Shirley Mills Wilson '50 is the Pennsylvania chairman and has succeeded in organizing groups which are far from alumnae clubs.

Kistler To Speak To Local Groups

Dr. Raymon Kistler, president of Beaver College, will be guest speaker at the annual banquet of the East Montgomery County Real Estate Board on Wednesday, March 28, at the Cedarbrook Country Club; and on Saturday, April 28, he will address the North Atlantic Sororist Clubs at their Regional Conference in Allentown.

Dr. Kistler will speak to various other organizations on varied themes throughout the months of March and April. On Monday, March 12, he will speak to the Cedar Crest College Club of Philadelphia on the subject, "Educating for a Better World"; and on Tuesday, March 13, he will speak at the Lansdowne Methodist Church on "The Mobilization Need."

Having begun on March 4, Dr. Kistler will continue to address the Presbyterian congregation at Ambler, Pennsylvania, for five more weeks. Other speech appointments on his schedule are the New Hope Christian Men's Club, Thursday, March 15; Beaver College Easter Vespers Service, Monday, March 19; the First Presbyterian Church of Haddonfield, New Jersey, Sunday, April 1; and the Pennsylvania Business Education Association, Saturday, April 28, at Norristown Pennsylvania.

MOVIE TONIGHT

The Y.W.C.A. will present a full-length movie, "Catherine the Great" tonight in Taylor Chapel at 7:30. Proceeds from the movie, starring Elisabeth Bergner and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., will benefit the Campus Chest.

RIAN IS TO SPEAK

Dr. Edwin Rian, vice-president of Beaver College, will be guest speaker in various neighboring churches during the latter part of March.

On Thursday, March 22, Dr. Rian will speak during the evening service at the Gaston Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia.

Members of the Jenkintown Methodist Church will hear Dr. Rian speak on Friday, March 23.

Dr. Rian will conclude his speeches for the month of March at the Central Presbyterian Church in Morristown, Pennsylvania, on Monday evening, March 26.

Home Ec. Majors Spend Six Weeks Managing House

Six of Beaver's senior home ec. majors are spending the first six weeks of this semester at the Home Ec. house on West and Highland Avenues. These girls—Marilyn Doig, Anna Gross, Catherine Kilpatrick, Barbara Lawrence, Virginia Brandner Linsenmann, and Jean Rosenheimer—are members of the advanced Home Management course. Only these girls who are education and foods majors live at the Home Ec. house.

Under the supervision of Miss Isabelle Bull, professor of home economics, each girl spends one week as cook, assistant cook, hostess, housekeeper, assistant housekeeper, and nurse. Their duties range from planning menus and doing the marketing to cleaning house and caring for the three-months-old "baby, Lydia.

As a result of living under such a plan the girls learn to master the many duties of a well-managed home and to do so on a planned budget. The hostess must work with $50 a week for seven adults and a baby. This includes food costs and also covers the cost of flowers and other minor expenses.

After having breakfast at 7 a.m. the girls put in a busy day since they carry a full schedule aside from the three credits which they receive for their work at the Home Ec. house. Every Tuesday night a house meeting is held. At this meeting the girls discuss and criticize the work that has been done during the week. On Wednesday nights the girls meet with Miss Bull for a one-credit course in nutrition.

As part of her work for the six-week period each girl must complete a project which will improve the house in some way. The girls at the house now are doing such things as painting and relining the baby carriage and redecorating the smoker.

FIFER, KISTLER TO SPEAK

The Reverend Louis E. Fifer, rector of the All Hallows Episcopal Church in Wyncote, will speak at the evening chapel service in Taylor Chapel on Monday evening, March 12. His topic will be a Lenten message.

Dr. Raymon Kistler, president of Beaver College, will address the students at a Lenten service on Monday evening, March 19.

Beaver Grads Will Celebrate

by E. ANN SNOOK

Tomorrow night Beaver will be on the minds of her alumnae all over the United States. She will be the subject of conversations at parties from Maine to Florida and from the East coast to California. Beaver Night here on campus will remind graduates of their alma mater.

Ex-Beaverites will find plenty of fun provided for them in almost every locality. Bridge parties, book reviews, auctions, and good old-fashioned "hen parties" are among the things on tomorrow night's agenda at homes of alumnae.

The theme of music will be carried out here on the Grey Towers campus by the Glee Clubs of Bea-

HOSTESSES WANTED

The Model U. N. Assembly to be held on the Beaver College campus during the Spring vacation will take place Thursday, Friday, Saturday, March 29, 30, 31.

Anyone interested in acting as hostess for this Model Assembly is urged to see Doris Kalfaian as soon as possible.

Forty-two colleges and universities will send representatives.

Exhibition Shown In Celebration Of Theatre Month

In celebration of theatre month, being observed during the month of March, the students of the history of drama class are sponsoring an exhibition which depicts the history of the theatre from its earliest beginnings to the present. Doris Adams '51, Louise Reddy '52, and Margaret Getz '53 are in charge of the project, and Miss Judith Elder, assistant professor of speech, is the faculty adviser.

The purpose of the exhibition is to stimulate and increase an interest in the American theatre, and the group is working under the auspices of, and in conjunction with ANTA, the association which is sponsoring theatre month. The work of this association was explained by Miss Blanche Yurka in her recent appearance here.

The exhibition is made up of large placards which bear reproductions of scenes from various modern productions of both classical and contemporary drama. These pictures have been borrowed from the educational service department of "Life" magazine.

The exhibition is arranged so that it traces the drama from its earliest beginnings in Greece, the first tableau being a picture of Judith Anderson in the role of Medea. The comedies and tragedies of Shakespeare, and the comedies of Moliere and Congreve are also depicted, as are the minstrel shows of the early American theatre. The last of the cycle shows the revolutionary drama of Ibsen and others from which the contemporary drama has stemmed.

Duke U. Professor To Talk March 13 At Assembly

Dr. Joseph Banks Rhine, professor of psychology and director of the parapsychology laboratory at Duke University, will speak to the student body in assembly on Tuesday, March 13, at 1:35. Dr. Rhine, sponsored by Forum, will discuss "Extra Sensory Perception," a subject which deals with hearing and sensing of imaginary things, a topic in which he has done research.

Dr. Rhine has also done research on psychokinesis, or the sensation of feeling, the psychophysical problem, and personality correlates of psi-phenomena.

The speaker is a member of the American Society of Psychological Research, and served as a trustee from 1945 through 1948. He also belongs to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the American Psychological Association.

Forum is sponsoring Dr. Rhine as its fifth guest of the school year. Two programs in May will complete activities of Forum for this year.

Dr. W. Lawrence Curry, Conductor

ver's own Glee singers with those of the Lehigh University Glee Club.

The remaining hours of the evening will be taken care of by the Beaver Alumnae Association who have planned a dance. Music for the dance will be provided by an orchestra.

Important items of time and place are as follows: Murphy chapel for the concert at 8:15 p.m., Murphy gymnasium at 9:30 p.m. for the dance. Everyone is invited free of charge.

Solo voices called on in several of the programmed numbers will be Alice Birk '51, Barbara Langdon '53, Louise Prowell '52, Barbara Schmidt '53, Mary Jane Slade '54, and Ruth Wirth '54 from Beaver; and Howard Frederick '51, Warren Jones '52, and William McCulloch '51 from Lehigh.

Thomas Dowdell '51, David Ryerson '52, Nancy Schaeffer '53, and Betty Jane Tomlinson '51 will provide all the piano accompaniments. Doris Dodd '53 will add an organ accompaniment to "The Orchestra Song."

Dr. W. Lawrence Curry, conductor of the Beaver club, and Mr. William H. Schempf, conductor of the Lehigh club, will direct the program.

The program itself will open with the combined clubs singing Handel's "Hallelujah, Amen" from "Judas Maccabaeus." The Beaver club will then sing a group of religious numbers which includes Schubert's "Hallelujah," Tschaiakowsky's "Glory Be To God on High," Oldroyd's "A Hymn To Beauty," a Negro spiritual arranged by Cain, "Ole Ark's a-Moverin'," and Buzzi Peccia's "Gloria."

The Lehigh club will follow this with "Non Nobis, Domine" by Quilter, "The Maiden in the Wood," by Dvorak, and "Tarantella" by Thompson.

Doris Dodd, organist, will play Widor's "Toccata" from "Symphony No. 5." The combined clubs will sing two choral scherzos, "Oh, Dear! What Can the Matter Be?" and "Polly-Wolly-Doodle," both by Kubik.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB TO MEET

The Sociology Club will hold a sandwich sale on April 9, and members are looking for suggestions for any new types of sandwiches to tempt appetites.

A trip to the Fellowship House in Philadelphia is being planned for April 12. Elections for officers for next year's group will be held on April 25 prior to a speech by a member of the Home Missionary Society of Philadelphia.

The club is hoping to have dinner at Williamsons' as the final meeting of the year on May 2. Mrs. Thelma Andress, associate professor of sociology, and Mr. Andress, Mr. Elliott Rudwick, instructor in sociology, will be guests.

What Does Russia Want?

Paris—long a center of international attention, has been attracting even more than its usual share this week. The reason—the first conference in two years of the Big Four: the United States, Britain, France, and Russia.

Since Russia began negotiating for a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers, it has been obvious that the Kremlin had a special purpose in mind. The big question now is: Just what is that purpose, and what is Russia aiming at?

While diplomats in Washington, London, and Paris were studying Soviet intentions previous to the conference, certain developments changed the world situation and tended to strengthen the position of the West.

First of all, the Western powers managed to harmonize their views on Germany. Secondly, the over-all military picture in Korea improved for the West while it proved costly for Russia's Chinese ally. Thirdly, America began a tremendous program of mobilization and at the same time showed a determination to adhere to the North Atlantic Treaty.

Thus the balance of power which seemed to favor Moscow in November is now more evenly divided. The present situation is truly favorable to successful negotiations if—and only if—the Russians do not try to use the conference to strengthen their old "peace offensive" by propaganda. Since they realize the Western Big Three are no longer split over the issue of Germany, the Russians may be hoping to confuse and divide them on the issue of the Far East, chiefly the Chinese Communist Government which Britain has recognized and the United States has not.

Before the conference is over it is expected that the United States will press for a discussion of many questions including Soviet armed strength, forces in the Balkan satellites, Moscow's campaign against Tito, and certain military organizations in Eastern Germany.

No one can predict exactly how and when Moscow's true intentions will be revealed, but it is certain that the present conference is giving the delegates at Paris an excellent opportunity to test the Soviet attitude and find out what Russia is really aiming at.

'52, Melnick Win Dramatic Honors

Reviewed by MARY ANN RAULERSON

The junior class and Elise Melnick '53 were awarded plaques for the best play and the best actor respectively in the recent Play Contest.

The freshman class presented the first play, "The Slave with Two Faces" by Mary Carolyn Davies. The freshman choice proved to be a rather poor play with a childish philosophy evidently meant to convey the idea that one must face life, for when one becomes afraid one is lost. A symbolic play, it centers around two girls, one of whom becomes afraid of life and is defeated, while the other girl faces life boldly and survives. In spite of working with a poor play, Ellen Greenberg was quite convincing as the girl who was afraid of life. Ellen seemed to understand her role, and played it sympathetically. She portrayed a sensitive girl bewildered by life, expressing her youth in graceful movements and her fear without melodrama. If Lucille Lowy was somewhat over-dramatic as the bolder girl who faced life, it rather fitted in with the part. Ellen Weissman as Life gave a consistent portrayal of the solemn mystery of life.

Anne Kabram and Marion Koenig, who were in charge of the sets, might have been wiser to use a symbolic setting rather than a realistic one for the play. Costumes by Sylvia Smith and the make-up by Bertha Goldberg were well done. The play was directed by Anita Cassimatis, and Janet Goller was chairman.

The sophomores did an excellent job with the well-known "Riders to the Sea" by J. M. Synge. Director Virginia Olsen succeeded in producing a smooth performance from all the actors throughout the play. This poetic drama has as theme the sorrow brought by the sea to those who live by it and in particular the sorrow of Maurya, an old woman who is resigned to sorrow after losing father, husband, and sons to the sea. Mary McConnell was very good as Maurya, particularly at the end when the last son has died.

Elise Melnick as the daughter Cathleen was outstanding in that she gave an unusually fine performance while remaining a supporting character. Elise had mastered the Irish dialect and the poetry of Synge's lines. Barbara Smith as Nora, the other daughter, understood her role, but spoke a little too fast to convey the meaning of the dialect.

The effect of the sets by Cynthia Richter, the gentle diminuendo of the lighting, handled by Jane Perry, and the background of the wailing of the mourners were important in producing the smooth performance. Marjorie Anderson was the chairman.

The junior play, Barrie's "Rosalind," deals with the comic situation that arises when a middle-aged actress, who has convinced her fans she is a gay young thing, retires into seclusion to try on the role of middle-age, and while doing so meets one of her young suitors. Joyce Waldman as Mrs. Page, the middle-aged woman and the actress in turn, handled the clever dialogue of Barrie, complete with Mayfair accent, delightfully. She was consistent throughout in her light tone of coquetry, making the most of the humorous dialogue. Charles Roux, the young suitor, was played by Nancy Brown who received honorable mention from the judges for her fine performance. Nancy fitted well the part of the adolescent Oxford student, and showed a good timing for comedy.

The sets by Cynthia McKelvy and Greta Funk were perfect for the play, their artificiality fitting in with the mood of the play. Properties, handled by Patricia Jackson, provided a convincing setting.

Although the play lagged briefly in the middle, Gayle MacCracken, as director, turned out a smooth play. Greta Funk was chairman.

Spectacle was the main feature of the senior play. Director Barbara Stafford had a difficult job cut out for her in presenting the fifteenth century morality play, "Everyman." An allegory, it tells of Everyman who is summoned by Death and finds that only Good Deeds will accompany him into the unknown. Ruth-Ann Dreyer as Everyman had a handicap in the enormous size of her role. She rose above the strict verse form and stepped completely within her part to make a very difficult part come alive, but her performance was marred by insecure knowledge of lines, although she took her prompting like a veteran actor so that the breaks were seldom noticeable. Jane Ernstthal also understood her role and was excellent in her brief part as Grim Death as was Patti Riker as Stern Knowledge. Unfortunately the majority of the rest of the large cast repeated their lines faithfully, but much as students rather than actors.

In presenting a type of play almost never seen, the seniors showed amazing originality and understanding in the overall effects. The sets, showing abstract forms in space and done by Carol Worden, were tremendous, fitting the abstractness of the play. Eleanor Butzko's and Patricia Lobsitz's use of make-up, particularly on Death, was excellent as were the costumes by Betty Jean Alevizatos.

Each class presented productions to be proud of and to be congratulated for an evening of well coordinated entertainment.

The judges were Mrs. William F. Wefer, wife of Dr. Wefer, a Beaver trustee, and associate editor of "Players Magazine," and theatre columnist for "Motive Magazine"; Mr. J. Kirk Merrick, vice-president of Plays and Players, and an actor and producer with that group; Dr. Joe Zimmerman of Temple University, who is director of the WFIL-TV University of the Air program.

I couldn't possibly study. I lost the piece of paper I had all my novel notes on.

The Mailbox

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Honor Council, I think it my obligation to clarify several erroneous ideas about the Beaver Honor System which appeared in the February issue of this paper.

The most obvious falsity lay in the statement, "The accused person may never know who accused her." A student is an individual at Beaver, and if she desires to know who her accusers are she is ALWAYS told. Many times an accused girl requests not to know in order to avert any trying situation that might result from personal feelings. The Honor Council does not operate as a secret society; it strives to be a democratic organization.

Judging from cases of former years, and from actual cases this year, we have found that practically all cases of dishonesty reported to Honor Council have been reported by several girls, not by one. When a case occurs which necessitates the placing of one girl word against another, and the accused student maintains her innocence, decisions always favor the accused girl until she is proved guilty through sufficient evidence.

Naturally, "The honor system is not as effective as it could be." The effectiveness lies with the individual student and the extent to which the individual accepts her responsibility. Any honor system is an ideal. What more effective basis can we have than a moral one?

The honor system at Beaver does not stress "punitive measures" or use them as a big stick; rather it strives to work from a positive point of view. It fosters the basic principle of honor in each person and relies on the conviction of the student body to support this belief. However, in order to be effective, the Council must initiate some action whereby justice within human capability, is done; hence, the reason for penalties.

Our working philosophy is not derived from the attitude, "Honesty is the best policy," but from the belief that honesty is right.

Vote Wisely For S. G. A. President!

We are very fortunate at Beaver, for at this college we, the students, are given the power to govern ourselves. We have a body called the Student Government Association to set up the rules by which we will govern ourselves. It is the right and privilege of every student enrolled in the college to belong to this legislative body.

Now it is time to choose the head of that governing body—the president of the Student Government Association—for 1951-'52, as well as the other officers of the student body's governing council.

From grade school on we have read in history books of people fighting for a right to have a voice in their government. We have read of the struggle within our own country for the right to have a democratic government, for the right of Negroes to vote, for the right of women to vote. We have heard of rights until the whole thing has become an old familiar story. We've reached the point where the right to vote is taken for granted, and the time when people couldn't vote seems ancient history. We have reached a point where voting is a duty instead of a privilege.

Now it is time to vote at Beaver. It is time to exert our privilege to choose the one who will lead us in our immediate government.

As a group of college students we are above the average in intelligence, theoretically. Let's hope we will exhibit that superior intelligence in the coming elections next Tuesday and Thursday, March 13 and 15.

Because of the new process of voting, each student may vote for all officers on one ballot, and need vote only once for each officer since the preferential ballot is used instead of an eliminating process.

Let's all turn out to vote. And when you vote, carefully consider the qualifications of each candidate. Vote wisely!

Dunham Has Had SGA Experience

by JANET NIEF

Carol Dunham represents the type of girl you want for your Student Government president. Carol has been a leader throughout her three years at Beaver and has entered into many activities which require responsibility, tact, foresight, and mature judgment—qualities desirable for S.G.A. president.

"Experience is the best teacher!" Carol knows how the Student Government operates because she has had actual experience representing her class in her freshman year on Student Council. In her sophomore year she headed her class as its president, and was also treasurer of the Day Student Council. And now, in her junior year she is secretary of Nominating Council and a class representative to the Student Council, in addition to serving as corresponding secretary of that organization.

Carol Dunham

Carol is not only familiar with the activities of school government, but has also entered into many social events as well. She has taken part on such committees as Soph Hop, Day Students' Dances, Junior Prom, Tradition, cake sales and has participated in intramurals, Y.W.C.A., Laurel Chain, and is a member of Kappa Delta Pi and the student counselor group. As a student counselor, Carol displayed above-average qualities of friendliness and understanding in dealing with her counselees. Carol is also a member of the Extracurricular Activities Committee. This committee is composed of students and faculty, and the purpose is to formulate the long-range policies to be used for all extracurricular activities. This has enabled her to become more thoroughly acquainted with the administrative procedure here at Beaver.

If Carol is elected, she will become a resident student. Carol has the added advantage of knowing many day students thereby helping to better integrate the two groups into a well-functioning organization. The Student Government president must be able to act as a liaison between students and faculty. She must take your opinions to the faculty and justly defend them.

A worthy leader must have the courage of her convictions; she must be a good student; she must also be able to express herself adequately, and she must have the experience and knowledge of the complexities of Student Government in order to be an efficient administrator.

Carol Dunham possesses all these qualities! Remember, your Student Government president will represent you and Beaver College in all activities next year.

Doris Kalfaian

Ability Seen In Kalfaian

by DOROTHEA WIRTH

My candidate for president of the S.G.A., Doris Kalfaian, is responsible and versatile, and I present her with the conviction that she will capably fulfill the duties of this office, the president of the Student Government Association.

Her activities represent a broad cross-section of college life, and she has been conscientious in all that she has undertaken here at Beaver College.

This year as president of the International Relations Club, Doris has shown unusual ability in re-establishing the club and in stressing the importance of this type of work on campus. By this time you have all noticed Doris running around campus at top speed. This is because she is busy with plans for the Model Assembly to be held on our campus this spring including representatives from 42 colleges and universities. She is chairman of registration for this assembly, and has represented Beaver at this and other conferences on government and international relations during her years here. All of these activities, in addition to her major in economics have prepared her to carry out administrative duties with efficiency and diplomacy.

To be the best president of S.G.A., a candidate should be familiar with the function of the other councils on campus. Doris is well qualified in this respect since she is a member of Honor Council and Nominating Council. She has also worked closely with Dormitory Council as a corridor representative.

As a student counselor, Doris has shown her ability to work sympathetically and understandingly with people and to deal wisely with difficult situations.

Doris's further versatility is evident by her participation in inter-dorm sports, Theatre Playshop, and work on the "Log." She also worked on the W.S.S.F. committee in the year that Beaver went way over the top on its quota. She has been a member of the Y.W.C.A. for three years, and was chairman of the refreshment committee for Junior Prom. Doris has also shown her willingness to work hard by serving as a student waitress. This experience has also acquainted her with some of the important problems confronting the student body.

This is a brief summary of Doris's responsibilities on campus, which qualify her for this office, but more important than these activities is the way she has executed them. In all that she does, she is conscientious, willing, sincere, efficient, and competent, and in all my contacts with her I have found that she gives thoughtful consideration before compromising on her high ideals.

Therefore, urging you to keep in mind her qualifications, I present and recommend to you my candidate, Doris Kalfaian.

Reisgen Proves Capable Leader

by BARBARA BROWN

Evidenced by her varied activities and responsibilities throughout three years at Beaver I am convinced that my candidate, Dorothy Reisgen, is best-suited to fulfill the highest office on campus—that of president of the Student Government Association. Knowing her personally I know her many assets as a person as well as her capabilities as a student leader. I believe we will all agree that an S.G.A. president should above all be held in esteem by her fellow students and the fact that Dottie has been chosen by her classmates to hold many responsible offices is a witness to this.

Dottie was elected to the Y.W.C.A. cabinet as a freshman and again as a sophomore. She was also a member of Glee Club for three years and was elected to the managerial board of Glee Club in her junior year. As another example of her outstanding ability as a manager and organizer, Dottie displayed proficiency as chairman of the ticket committee for both Soph Hop and Junior Prom. In her junior year, she was also the advertising manager of the "Beaver News," on which she had worked faithfully as a member of the circulation staff in her sophomore year.

Besides the multitude of extracurricular activities in which Dot has engaged she has exhibited fine leadership qualities as president of the junior class. Dottie is a student counselor.

Dottie not only has had experience working with students, but has also served on the Extracurricular Activities Committee which is composed of both students and faculty. She understands the problems and intricacies of student-faculty relationships and has shown diplomacy in situations necessitating these qualifications. She is well aware of resident problems, having served as a conscientious member of Dorm Council and being second house president of Montgomery Hall. Dottie has gained much valuable experience by representing her class on both Student Council and Nominating Council during her sophomore year.

Dot is a home economics major and continues her interest in the field by being a member of the Home Ec. Club. In addition to all this she has received recognition for her outstanding academic achievement. In her sophomore year she received the Dean's prize, and as junior she was awarded the President's prize, which indicate maintenance for two years of the highest academic average in her class. Along the same line Dot is a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha, the national honorary philosophy fraternity.

Each one of us is looking for a girl to carry on the fine reputation which our S.G.A. has obtained—one who possesses such qualifications as leadership, experience, maturity, and good judgment in carrying out her duties as president. That girl is Dottie Reisgen!

Suzanne Divine

Divine Shows Leadership

by LOUISE BUCHER SHARP

I believe that Suzanne Divine fulfills all the necessary qualifications for president of the Student Government Association.

The variety of Sue's interests and her willingness to serve are evident in the record of her activities. In her freshman year Sue was elected vice-president of her class and also worked on decorations for the freshman dance.

Sophomore year her class elected Sue as their representative to Honor Council. Again she served her class by working on decorations for Soph Hop and also acting as costume chairman for the sophomore class in Play Contest.

This year Sue really hit her stride. The junior class elected her as their representative to Student Council and also chose her as co-chairman of the highly successful Junior Prom. As a member of Student Council she was appointed chairman of food committee and this job, as we all realize, certainly gives valuable experience in working with both students and administration. Sue has received the complaints of the students and has tried to solve their problems, at the same time realizing the difficulties entailed in the management of the dining room of a large institution.

Another recognition of Sue's ability to work with her fellow-students was her election as a student counselor to the incoming freshman class. In addition to these activities Sue again found time to serve as costume chairman for Play Contest. Sue is no star athlete but she is interested in Beaver's athletic program and is a member of the varsity riflery team, which fills out an already varied and busy extracurricular program.

The president of the Student Government Association must be familiar both with the mechanics of our student government and also with the work of the various councils; she must be keenly interested in student affairs on this campus and on others; and she must be able to work effectively with both the student body and the administration. The job also requires patience, tact, and maturity of judgment. I believe that Sue possesses all these qualifications, either as inherent characteristics or through the experience gained in the positions she has held at Beaver College.

In addition, she combines with these qualities a pleasing personality and a sincere interest in student welfare.

I am sure that after carefully reviewing the qualifications for a Student Government president and then considering carefully the merits of my candidate you will be convinced that Sue Divine is the candidate best fitted to represent you, the student body.

Yurka Urges Furthering 'Live Theatre' In U. S.

"We should not be the Babbitt of the theatre world," Blanche Yurka, well known actress of the legitimate theatre, said in her talk before the students here last Tuesday in pleading for a realization of the cultural value of a national theatre.

S.G.A. Candidates Speak To Voters At Wed. Meeting

Suzanne Divine, Carol Dunham, Doris Kalfaian, and Dorothy Reisingen, candidates for the president of the Student Government Association, were presented by their sponsors Louise Sharp, Janet Nief, Dorothea Wirth, and Barbara Brown respectively at the S.G.A. meeting last Wednesday night.

Candidates for the offices of vice-president, secretary, and treasurer of S.G.A. were also introduced, and their various activities reviewed. This was a procedure not followed in former years but suggested as a means of getting acquainted with the candidates before elections.

A motion for the scheduling of chapel hours at 5:55 on Wednesday and Thursday nights was presented by Student Council and passed by the student body. This decision will be presented to the committee on College Government for approval before it can go into effect.

In conjunction with this motion and other suggestions which have been made concerning the improvement of the chapel attendance a discussion was held on the possibility of taking attendance in chapel. It was proposed that either this action be taken or attendance be put completely on the basis of honor instead of periodically checking up on those girls illegally absent from evening chapel services.

Team Is Downed By Ursinus 34-23 At Abington Pool

Beaver's varsity swimming team was defeated by a strong Ursinus squad 34-23 last Wednesday, March 7, at Beaver home pool, the Abington Y.M.C.A. pool.

The varsity swimmers took two first places. Greta Funk '52 took first place in the diving competition and Nancy Nagel '51 came in first in the backstroke event with the winning time of 30.2 seconds.

By far the most exciting race was the medley relay. Those who swam for Beaver were Nagel, doing the backstroke, Phil Saxton '52, taking the leg of the breaststroke, and Ginny Platz '52, finishing with the freestyle. Ursinus came in ahead of Beaver in this race.

The freestyle was another close race. Ginny Platz swam a very close second to the Ursinus swimmer. The Ursinus girl did the course in 25.8 seconds.

Ursinus' Compton came in first in the breaststroke race. She took second place in the intercollegiate breaststroke race held recently.

Beaver has one more meet on its schedule and that with Penn on Thursday, March 15, at home. The junior varsity has a meet coming up with Temple in the next week.

The Beaver Glee Club will solo in Schuman's "Holiday Song," a Czech-Slovak folksong arranged by Taylor, "Waters Ripple and Flow," a sea chanty arranged by Scott, "Haul Away, Joel," and a traditional Austrian song arranged by Schuman, "The Orchestra Song."

The men will follow this group with "Turn Ye To Me," a Scotch folksong arranged by Davison, "May Day Carol," an Essex County Air arranged by Taylor, "My Johnny Was A Shoemaker," an English folksong arranged by Bartholomew, and "A-Roving," a chanty also arranged by Bartholomew.

The final number of the program will combine both groups in an American folksong sketch, "Tee Roo" by Kubik which will feature solo voices chosen from both clubs.

Beaver Defeats Albright 34-30 In Thrilling Game

Beaver College's basketball team won its third game in seven starts by defeating Albright 34-30. The game was played on Tuesday, March 6, at Albright.

Jane Oswald '52 of Beaver was high scorer in the game with 14 points. High scorer for Albright was Leinback with 10 points.

Beaver's guards, using their zone defense, had the Albright forwards bottled up, allowing them only 2 goals for 4 points in the first quarter. Man to man defense was used by the Albright guards. They allowed Beaver 3 goals and 2 fouls for 8 points, thus the first period ended with the score 4-8, Beaver's favor, giving them a lead they kept throughout the first half.

Playing a smoother brand of ball Beaver managed to sink 14 points in the second quarter. Albright, still having trouble getting in under the basket, scored 8 points. The quarter proved to be the biggest in the way of scoring for Beaver. Half-time score was Beaver 22 and Albright 12.

Three substitute forwards were sent in for Beaver in the third quarter. Albright started to click and tossed in 14 points while Beaver scored only four points in this period.

The last quarter found Beaver struggling to hold its lead. The score was tied at the end of the third period, but Beaver pulled away from Albright and scored 8 points to Albright's 4. The final score was Beaver 34, Albright 30.

Beaver's junior varsity also won their game 62-28. High scorers were Target Hill '53 of Beaver with 12 points and Miller of Albright with 12 points.

Sports Round-Up By BEBE

Well, basketball, swimming, and rifle season are almost over for another year. Neither the basketball nor the swimming team has been very successful so far this season. The rifle team, however, has been extremely successful.

On Thursday, March 15, Beaver will finish the season with a game with Chestnut Hill to be played at home. Chestnut Hill does not pose too great a problem for the varsity. Last season Beaver defeated its team 31-24 and should be on the winning end of the score this year.

Tuesday, February 27, Ursinus defeated Beaver 45-39 in a thrilling game. Beaver led until the third quarter then blew the game.

Last Friday, March 2, Beaver beat Wagner College 48-41 in what was also a very good game.

The swimming team, which also has only one more meet, has met Ursinus on Wednesday, March 7, at home. Ursinus swimmers are pretty fair team this season.

Beaver's last meet will be with Penn on Thursday, March 15, at home. Penn has a better swimming team than last year, but Beaver has a 50-50 chance to come out on top. On Thursday, March 1, Temple defeated Beaver 46-11 at the Temple pool.

As was said before, the rifle team has been very successful. On Tuesday, February 27, they defeated Drexel 489-488. The team has only one match and that to Drexel earlier in the season. They are now shooting the Nationals.
